■ Hibernia National Bank leased nine floors of office space in the Place St. Charles building in 2005. The first three phases included office space consisting of workstations of varying heights and offices that have aluminum storefronts on the perimeter to allow natural light into the central work areas. A large employee break area with lounge seating and stained concrete flooring was designed on Floor 17 as well a state-of-the-art fitness center. New finishes and a bright color palette were brought into the design of the space to provide new and bright office space and in keeping with the Capital One main headquarters.
